Chronic diseases - Open Call for Survey Answers

Dear readers of ADAPT's bulletin,

Following the long-lasting research activity in the field of the inclusion of people affected by chronic diseases in the labour market, ADAPT is now a partner in the international project REWIR - Reintegrating Return to Work in the Age of Demographic Change through Industrial Relations. This initiative is co-financed by the European Commission and aims to study the role that industrial relations at the EU, national and company level play in addressing the working lives of EU citizens through work reintegration and integration after exposure to adverse conditions, against a background of demographic and technological change.

To this purpose, thanks to the contribution of our partners, we have just launched a survey specifically addressed to trade unions and employers' organisations in EU Member States to collect information and views about the role played by industrial relations in this field. We thank you to fill out the online survey and, through this, to contribute to the analysis and development of projects which aim to support people who return to work after serious illness or with a chronic condition.

The project, lasting from March 2019 to February 2021, is coordinated by CEPR - Centre for European Policy Studies. In addition to CEPR, we have received CESO - Central European Labour Studies Institute (SK), Lucan; Shiga University of Business, University of Shiga (JP); ADAPT - Association for International and Comparative Studies in the Field of Labour Law and Industrial Relations (IT), Dublin City University (IE); Zia Anis in the role of sub-coordinator (UK); International Workplace Institute (UK).

Your opinions and experiences are very valuable to us and to the European Commission. Thanks for helping us encouraging this message.
